No Value, Much Danger

B.C.'s Probers Blast Hoxsey Cancer Claims

Report Presented To Legislature

By PETER BRUTON

A special University of B.C. investigating committee has shot down the cancer cure claims of Hoxsey clinics.

"The medications known as the 'Hoxsey treatment for cancer' are of no value in the treatment of internal cancer and the external treatments used have no place in modern cancer therapy," according to the committee's report which was tabled in the legislature yesterday.

The $12,000 investigation was made at the request of the provincial government after former Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens had frequently claimed that Hoxsey clinics could cure cancer.

"We have found that the methods of diagnosis (at the Hoxsey clinic) are inadequate, that the treatments used for internal cancer do not affect the progress of the disease, that no serious attempt is made to follow up treated cases in order to evaluate results, and that no significant research has been done," the report states.

Chief danger presented by the Hoxsey treatment is the delay that is occasioned to patients who might have a reasonable opportunity of being cured by the proved methods of surgery and radiation, the 60-page report continued.

Large Sums of Money

"The other menace of the Hoxsey treatment is the false hope it arouses in patients and the usless expenditure of large sums of money by many who can ill afford to do so," it said.

The six-man committee, which spent nine months on the task, consisted of Dr. J. M. Mather, professor and head of the department of public health; Dr. George Saxton, clinical instructor of the department of surgery; Dr. H. E. Taylor, professor and head of the department of pathology; Neal Harlow, UBC librarian; A. W. R. Carothers, associate professor, faculty of law; and S. A. Jennings, professor of the department of mathematics.

Last July and August the committee visited the Hoxsey clinic in Dallas, Tex.

In addition, the committee made a "follow up" study of 78 persons from British Columbia who had attended the Hoxsey clinic.

The committee found that of these 78 persons:

Thirty-two are now dead.

Nine are dying or the cancer is progressing.

Eighteen had no proved evidence of malignancy.

Even received curative treatment before going to the clinic.

One was cured, but with needless pain and disfigurement as the case could have been better handled with radiation or surgery.

Seven were impossible to follow up due to incomplete or incorrect records at the clinic.

And four were inconclusive, as it is too soon to predict the outcome.

The report said the committee had found that of those now dead, most had received the maximum amount of orthodox treatment available and had been told nothing further could be done for them.

"These visits to the Hoxsey clinic represented their last desperate hope," the report said.

The committee said it got full co-operation from the Hoxsey clinic.

Tests Mean Nothing

Each patient receives a number of routin laboratory tests which appear to be done accurately, "but in no instance do they bear any special relevance to the diagnosis of cancer," the report said.

X-rays are then taken, but this department does not function as an efficient aid in the diagnosis of cancer.

After these tests an osteopath sees the patient, examines him and prescribes treatment. "With rare exceptions, the patients whose records we saw were diagnosed as having cancer," said the report.

"Each patient so diagnosed receives the Hoxsey internal medicine," it continued. "This was originally given as a liquid black medicine but is now dispensed in pill form. The patient is given six months' supply, together with various supportive preparations such as vitamins, pain tablets, laxatives, etc.

"For persons with external cancer, other treatments are used in addition to the preparations taken by the mouth. Most of these are escharotic preparations which literally burn off the cancerous tissue, together with adjacent normal tissue," the report said.

The committee saw two cases of external cancer treated at the clinic.

One was on a woman who had had a large protruding tumor at the base of her neck, with several smaller tumors above it. The large tumor had been amputated two days before, leaving a large raw area at least four inches in diameter.

To this was applied an escharotic paste "with absolutely no regard for asepsis or antisepsis. There was no preliminary washing of hands or wearing of gloves. Scissors and spatula were used from an open shelf and gauze used on the wound came from an open roll on the shelf."

Cost of treatment was usually about $400 with an added bill of about $60 for laboratory and X-ray services. The cost of a patient from B.C. would not be less than $700, it was stated.

Eight Prize Examples

The committee was shown eight patients the clinic said had been cured of cancer.

"From the supposed 25,000 cases that have been treated by this method, the eight we saw are obviously prize examples, used over and over again as evidence of the value of the treatment," said the report.

The committee said it would appear that interest in the clinic is growing in B.C.

In 1952, one person went from B.C. There were five in 1953, 14 in 1954, nine in 1955, 27 in 1956 and 21 in the first six months of 1957.

"We found only one patient who could, in any sense, be considered to have been 'cured' by the Hoxsey treatment," the report stated.

Health Minister Eric Martin, who tabled the report, said he would not make any personal comment on the matter.

"I am not at liberty to do so," he said. "I'm only a layman. But the report will certainly go a long way to clarify the doubts in people's minds and as such the report should be of great value."

Doctor Lauds Investigators

The president of the Victoria Medical Society last night praised the UBC committee which reported adversely on the Hoxsey cancer treatment clinic.

But he declined to comment on the report itself.

"The investigating committee has done an extremely good job," said Dr. G. F. Homer.

LYDIA ARSENS

Lydia Arsens Still Sides With Hoxsey

Mrs. Lydia Arsens, former Victoria MLA and advocate of the Hoxsey cancer treatment, said she would continue to "fight for a clinic in B.C." in the face of the reporting committee's criticism.

"No report of theirs will ever make me waver," Mrs. Arsens said grimly, a few minutes after she learned the nature of the UBC committee report on the Hoxsey treatment.

'ONLY CRIME'

"I still uphold the Hoxsey Clinic," she said. "It has performed marvellous cures. It's only crime is that it doesn't cure cancer the orthodox way."

Mrs. Arsens said she was not surprised at a figure of 32 dead of 78 cases from British Columbia whose names were on file at the Hoxsey Clinic and whose names were followed up by the investigating committee set up by the provincial government.

'GIVEN UP'

"Most of the patients who reach the clinic are terminal cases given up by the medical profession and told to go home and die," she said. "They go to the Hoxsey clinic as a last resource."

"Why should they go home and lie down and wait for the end when there is hope?" she asked. "Even if only one in 100 was cured in these circumstances it would be worthwhile. But far more are cured."

RECOMMENDED IT

Mrs. Arsens said she "certainly had" recommended the Hoxsey Clinic to numbers of cancer sufferers—"if their doctors told them there was no hope."

The committee's instructions were to visit the Hoxsey Clinic in Dallas and report what it saw, Mrs. Arsens claimed.

'WHY GO BEYOND'

"Why did they go beyond that—to the American Medical Association and the National Cancer Institute?" she asked. "To seek permission on what kind of a report to give?

"Does a jury leave the courtroom to go out and seek pro and con opinions before giving a verdict?"

Pearson Suggests:

'Write to Reds Every Week'

BRANDON (CP)—Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson said Monday although strength is a short-term deterrent to war, negotiations of world problems is the only answer for world peace.

In an address to the 74th annual meeting of the Brandon chamber of commerce, Mr. Pearson said there should be determination to "negotiate our differences with the people behind the Iron Curtain.

"Negotiations are just as important as missiles and rockets," he said.

WEEKLY LETTER

"We should take the initiative . . . we shouldn't be letting Bulganin (Premier Bulganin of Russia) send all the letters. Why don't we send him a letter every week. Let's put him on the spot and answer a few."

Mr. Pearson said perhaps this is not the answer, maybe this is just propaganda, but "propaganda is a part of peace."

Referring to a summit meeting proposed by Russia, Mr. Pearson said the summit is a "pretty precarious place—as I am beginning to find out even in our own party matters."

Summit is a place "high up, at the top where it is cold and there is a lot of wind." He suggested perhaps this is not a good place to negotiate.

NATO BEST AGENCY

'We first should do a lot of work down in the valley," he said.

Spade work should be done before a summit meeting, and then "all the top men should have to do is sign on the dotted line."

Mr. Pearson said the best agency for this is NATO.

Canada is playing a "constructive part in all this," he said. Canadians have an advantage in that they can speak "both English and American.

"A Canadian can talk to an American like no Englishman dare talk, and a Canadian can talk to an Englishman like no American would dare to talk, especially if he talked to him with an Oxford accent."

'Gift' to B.C. Slashed $2,721,000

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia will get $2,721,000 less than anticipated under the new federal tax concessions. All other provinces except Prince Edward Island will get slightly more.

Finance Minister Fleming, in tabling revised figures in the Commons Monday, said original figures he gave the House last Saturday did not take stabilization payments into account.

Stabilization payments have been paid to B.C. and Prince Edward Island to make sure that their yields out of existing five-year federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements at least match yields from the previous 1952-57 tax rental pact.

Mr. Fleming announced that B.C., instead of getting an increase of $5,563,000 in the next fiscal year, will get only $2,842,000 out of the federal proposal to increase the provincial portion of the federal personal income tax to 13 per cent from 10.

Prince Edward Island, which Mr. Fleming previously figured would get an increase of $370,000, actually will get no increase.

All opposition parties in the Commons indicated Monday they intend to facilitate swift passage of the tax concessions.

But there were charges the government had tossed the tax proposal into the provinces' laps without asking whether they liked it, and had given the Atlantic region "charity."

Naval Ships Collide

HALIFAX (BUP)—Two destroyer escorts of the navy's Atlantic fleet which collided Sunday while engaging in manoeuvres in the Carribbean were reported last night to be continuing their anti-submarine exercises.

The navy said earlier that no one was injured and that "minor" damages resulted when HMCS Algonquin collided with HMCS Nootka.

Announcement said damage to each ship was not extensive enough to affect its seaworthiness.

Both ships sailed earlier this month with 10 other Canadian warships for the annual winter manoeuvres in the Carribean and southern United States waters.

Dulles' Promise — To Pact Allies

U.S. Ready to Strike

* * *

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—John Foster Dulles told the Baghdad Pact allies Monday that the United States stands ready to strike back against aggression to save the Middle East from "the scourge of invasion."

JOHN FOSTER DULLES
. . . "scourge of invasion"

After hearing a call from leaders of Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Pakistan for more and urgent aid, Dulles said:

"The Baghdad Pact group of countries can be confident that U.S. mobile power of great force would, as needed, be brought to bear against any Communist aggression."

But he told the allies they must have their own "forces of national defences."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain warned of ulterior motives in Soviet "goodwill" gestures toward Arab nations. Far from seeking goodwill, he said, they were "concerned solely with furthering their own objectives."

Lloyd said Britain is not opposed to a summit conference with the Russians "if it seems that a summit meeting would be the best way to get agreement." But it must be preceded by careful preparations.

Lloyd noted that Russia remains "as hostile as ever" toward the Baghdad Pact and continues to attack it in its propaganda.

$1,000 in Damages Awarded in Divorce

VANCOUVER (CP)—Damages of $1,000 were awarded by Mr. Justice A. E. Lord to Maurice Barkley Dahlman, Port Alberni lumberman, against Richard Henry Smith of Stamp Falls, named as co-respondent in Dahlman's suit for divorce from Elizabeth Ellen Dahlman.

Dahlman had claimed $5,000.

In reporting the judgment when it was made Dec. 3 The Canadian Press erroneously reported that the damages awarded Mr. Dahlman were $300. The Canadian Press regrets its error and apologizes for any embarrassment or inconvenience caused Elizabeth Ellen Dahlman.

Dead Boy's Chief Interest Doing Things for Others

Danny Fraser, 14-year-old Belmont Park boy found dead by hanging Sunday in a wooded area near his home, was popular at school and average in his studies.

He was a student in Grade 7 at John Stubbs Memorial School, and yesterday his room teacher, Mrs. Margaret Manson, and principal, George A. Turner, expressed shock at his death.

(See story on page 5.)

"He was always well liked by the other boys," said Mrs. Manson.

"Danny was always helping the younger children," said his father, Gordon Fraser, 469 Thetis Crescent. He pointed across the street from the family home to a rough shack, built against the side of a hill.

"Danny built that for the younger ones," he said. "That was his chief interest—helping them."

Duke Shoots Down Price of Pheasants

SANDRINGHAM, England (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh is annoying poultry dealers in this area because he is shooting so many pheasants that local prices have dropped to rock bottom.

His shooting parties — which go out sometimes twice a day while the duke is staying at the royal home here bag 300 to 400 birds each time.

And prices locally have dropped from 20 to 16 shillings for a pair of birds. The comparable London price is 30 shillings a pair.

Birds from Sandringham are sold direct to local dealers.

One local dealer said: "They are shooting too many pheasants for my liking. I've got far more birds than I can sell."

The more birds on the market, the lower the price.

'All Sleep Soundly When in Moscow'

MOSCOW—Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev made a new plea yesterday for an East-West summit conference and non-aggression pact.

Khrushchev, in expansive form, urged these moves while [illegible] at an Indian Embassy reception.

The Soviet leader discussed what he called the danger of U.S. bombers flying over Europe with atomic and hydrogen bombs.

"You are all sleeping soundly because you are in Moscow," Khrushchev told the western envoys.

British Ambasador Sir D'Arcy Patrick Reilly promptly replied:

"We sleep soundly because there will not be an attack. Although the bombers are not ours we are fully responsible for them."

Sir D'Arcy was referring to the nuclear weapon carrying U.S. strategic bombers based in England.

The British diplomat asked Khruschev, "Why should there be a non-aggression pact when the United Nations charter is pledged to non-aggression?"

Khruschev replied: "Well, why do you have regional pacts like NATO, SEATO and Baghdad?"

"That is for the prevention of war," Sir D'Arcy answered to which Khruschev retorted: "We must make the United Nations the instrument for peace and not only for the prevention of war."

Another Western ambassador suggested the fear abroad of future Soviet aggression.

"We have everything we want," Khrushchev said. "There's nothing we have to take. All we want is peace."

Khrushchev then turned to Sir D'Arcy, tapped the diplomat on the chest with a stubby forefinger and said:

"You see how easy it is for me, a former coal miner, to argue with you, a trained diplomat. This is because our position is so clear, but your position is so weak you have constantly to twist and turn."

No alcoholic drinks were served at the reception, following the custom of the Indian National Day celebrations. The [illegible] "friendship between nations" in fruit juices.

Nikita Steals Scene From Mike and Liz

MOSCOW (UP) — Mike Todd and Elizabeth Taylor would have stolen the show at the Indian embassy reception in Moscow last night—except for Nikita Khrushchev.

They attracted considerable attention as they entered the embassy, but Khrushchev attracted more. The Todds didn't get a chance to speak to him.

Minister of Culturé Nikolai Mikhailov came over to the American couple and agreed to receive them today. Todd wants to discuss a joint production of "War and Peace."

British Doctors Declare:

Cigarets Big Cause Of Lung Cancer

LONDON (Reuters)—A British Medical Association booklet tells Britons bluntly: "Cigaret smoking is a cause of lung cancer. That's that and you can't talk your way out of it."

The booklet, a supplement to the February issue of the magazine Family Doctor, was written by Dr. Harvey Graham, a pseudonym for its editor, Dr. Harvey Flack.

"Cigaret smoking is indeed the principal factor in the causation of lung cancer," the booklet said.

"No other theory fits the facts. No amount of criticism has shaken the basic clinical, chemical and statistical findings."

Pipes and cigars are not nearly so dangerous as cigarets, Dr. Flack said.

He suggested the reason there was still considerably less lung cancer among women than among men was that heavy smoking did not become common among women until after the Second World War.

"They just haven't been smoking enough cigarets for enough years," he said.

Safecrackers Grab $2,350

VANCOUVER (CP)—Safecrackers escaped with $2,350 during the weekend when two city safes were chopped and blown open—the sixth and seventh such lootings this month.

A downtown cafe lost $1,550 while a butcher shop lost $800.

Hungry Cougar Kills Kin

INVERMERE (CP)—Cougars are on the prowl in this East Kootenay district.

A total of 15 of the beasts have been killed in the Windermere district this season, seven of them by [illegible] son of Edgewater and his two cougar-tracking dogs, Mike and Stub.

Game officials say the cougars seem to be particularly hungry this season. Game warden J. B. McKill, following the tracks of a large tom, found it had attacked and killed a smaller cougar and devoured all but the head and claws.

McKill said it was the first time he had ever heard of one cougar killing and eating another.

Global Trip Starts

Queen Mother In B.C. Tonight

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth spent Monday night with Princess Margaret before setting out today on her informal "meet the people" tour of Australia and New Zealand.

When she lands here again March 10 she will have flown round the world — the first member of the Royal Family to do so.

The first leg of her 25,800-mile trip will be to the Fiji Islands via Montreal, Vancouver and Honolulu.

In Vancouver tonight, she will be the guest of Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at his private residence.

She will take a roundabout drive on Wednesday to city hall, on the way stopping at Queen Elizabeth School on Little Mountain.

Her plane leaves Vancouver Wednesday night.

British Columbia altogether has more than 9,000,000 acres in national and provincial parks.

Sailors to Catch Boat

Three British merchant seamen who damaged a cabin aboard Ss. Baron Inverclyde in drydock at Esquimalt, will get out of jail just in time to rejoin their ship.

John Burns, 19; Patrick Sales, 20, and Frederick Phipps, 24, all of London, pleaded guilty in County Court yesterday to a charge of mischief to property.

Before passing sentence, Judge J. B. Clearihue said he had read the transcript of the preliminary hearing, held last week in city police court.

He asked when the Baron Inverclyde would be sailing for England, and was told she would be sailing from Vancouver about Feb. 3 or 4. She is now up-Island.

The judge then sentenced the three to serve seven days in Oakalla. Their terms end just in time for the ship's sailing.

Three youths charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal were remanded to today, following preliminary hearing in city police court yesterday morning.

Harry Douglas Hoskin, 19, Mount Newton Cross Road; Ronald Leslie McMeeken, 18, of 1906 Birch, and Norman Karl McKenzie, 20, of 1035 Empress, had elected trial in higher court.

Another youth, Thomas Leslie Hammond, 17, of 2625 Cedar Hill, was transferred from juvenile to open court on the same charge.

Hammond elected trial by magistrate and pleaded guilty. On appearing in court yesterday he was remanded to Thursday.

The four are accused of breaking into the Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John, early Jan. 15.

Det. Alex Briggs testified he had looked into the building at 2 a.m. that day and noticed a cash box overturned on a counter.

With president Sam Swetnam they entered the laundry, and found four youths hiding in a far corner under a pile of 200 pounds of soiled clothing.

Mr. Swetnam told of finding the office disturbed, with several cash boxes opened and $5.95 in petty cash missing.

This money was later found in the pile of laundry by Douglas John Knight, 1360 Hastings, one of the employees.

Robert D. Harvey, Sr., represented Hoskin; David Sloan was counsel for McMeeken. McKenzie was without counsel.

* * *

Stuart J. McCullough, Victoria, was fined $25 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to failing to file an income tax return for 1956.

* * *

In Colwood police court, Ray Kenix Bredo, Port Alberni, was sentenced yesterday to 14 days in jail.

It was his second impairment charge. This time he was found impaired in control of a vehicle—asleep behind the wheel on the Malahat.

Because he indicated he planned to join Alcoholics Anonymous, Robert William Woodford, 26, of 817 Dunsmuir, was given a "somewhat lighter" sentence in city police court.

He was fined $100, or three months, after pleading guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

After Five Days

Market Still Burns

LONDON (Reuters) — Charred ruins of a quarter of London's Smithfield Market—southern England's main meat distribution centre—continued to smoulder yesterday, five days after the blaze began.

But the market was as busy as ever when a quarter of the week's supply of meat passed through.

The blaze killed two firemen and destroyed the central poultry section, wiping out 76 retail stores. Fire chiefs have said the ruins probably will continue to smoulder for weeks but no interruption in the supply of meat is foreseen.

Substantial Help Now

THE federal government's pledge of $87,206,000 in additional grants and tax easements to the 10 provinces, in the fiscal year beginning on April 1, as an interim basis of settlement to help with budget difficulties is a substantial one. Prime Minister Diefenbaker first telegraphed the administration's decision to all provincial premiers, and then Finance Minister Donald Fleming made a similar announcement in the House of Commons as last week closed. Both said that the interim grants will not waive a full Dominion-Provincial conference on fiscal relationships when opportunity occurs. The government's move is in terms of action now; expressly to help the four Atlantic provinces, and more generally all of partners in the federal union.

The interim help consists of two devices. To each of the four Atlantic provinces will go $25,000,000 in direct federal grants during the next four years. The balance of the sum, $62,206,000, is concerned in increasing from 10 per cent to 13 per cent in the coming fiscal year the permissive participation by provinces in income taxes due to the central government, without duplication of income levies. The value of the extra grants varies from a high of $21,316,000 to Ontario to a low of $2,870,000 to Prince Edward Island; with British Columbia slated for $5,563,000 this year.

At the last full conference the provinces had asked for relief and cash amounting to more than $1,000,000,000, or roughly one-fifth of the national budget. While it has been obvious that the federal treasury would not yield such a sum, it remained for the Diefenbaker government to go over the submissions of the provinces to consider what are the real pressure points now. The interim aid decision has been its answer, and whatever else may be said it will give a substantial measure of relief now to those provinces which stand most in need of it. On this undertaking they can budget for the coming fiscal year with definite assurance of performance.

By taking the step now and promising a resumption of Dominion-Provincial discussions later, the administration is closing no gate. The Atlantic provinces should find this help welcome, and their need has been more acute than that of other sections of the nation. The additional grants will be cash in hand which can be taken into provincial budgets during 1958-59.

Shocking Irresponsibility

REPORTS from Richmond, B.C., that school teachers there have resorted to what amounts to intimidation in demands for salary increases make disturbing reading. It has been stated that on the eve of arbitration proceedings the Richmond Teachers' Association threatened the local school board that unless the teachers' demands were met the schools of the district would be blacklisted.

If this is correct the teachers are setting a shocking example to the children of the Richmond district. Such a threat if it has been made—and there is no reason to doubt the authenticity of the report—amounts to open contempt for the laws of the province which would be reprehensible in any organization of employees and is immeasurably more so where those involved are members of a profession as highly honored as are the teachers.

Arbitration is a process established by statute; and for excellent reason, though that is beside the point. In law it carries precisely the same weight as all other laws governing conduct and behavior. For the association to counsel teachers to boycott the Richmond schools if the findings of the arbitration board are not satisfactory, and to do so before the board has even begun to hear the case, constitutes open defiance of the statutes and the legislature which passed them. It is an act equivalent to a declaration by a party to an action in the courts that he would not accept the decision of the bench unless it was in his favor.

What hope is there of inculcating respect for the laws of the country when teachers display such irresponsibility? It doesn't matter now whether the Richmond teachers go through with their threat or not. The damage was done when they made it.

A Change of Hue

IT is not the chameleon alone that changes color to suit its environment; the Liberal Party is undergoing a similar metamorphosis. One of its patent intentions at the next election is to pose as a fine friend of Great Britain. The record is against it, but like the chameleon when it is threatened a change of hue will be invoked as a camouflage.

When Mr. Lester Pearson was in Vancouver the other day he took time out to castigate the Diefenbaker regime for its proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade to Britain. This was poor stuff, he implied, compared to what the Liberals would do, which would be to study—and by inference implement—the British idea of free trade between the two countries. In its entirety the latter could be disastrous to Canada and was mainly a long-term suggestion by the Macmillan government, but that is by the way.

What is interesting is the chameleon-like Liberal reversal. When the government's 15 per cent diversion was first mentioned in Parliament the Liberals objected that this would harm relations with the U.S. This was a natural reaction since for 22 years successive Liberal governments watched with complacency the ascendancy of American influence in Canada. Now, and obviously to suit its election purposes, the party is jumping on a different bandwagon. Ostensibly U.S. trade does not matter so long as voters are persuaded of the friendly feelings the Liberals have for Great Britain.

Liberal governments have been patently cool to the United Kingdom for years, and their attitude was climaxed when the St. Laurent regime deliberately turned thumbs down on Britain at the height of the Suez crisis, little more than a year ago. This was the true test of friendship, and voters have not forgotten Mr. St. Laurent's "supermen" aspersion aimed at Britain—never since retracted.

Harwell Gives Story of Zeta

Text of Hydrogen Statement

(Supplied through courtesy of United Kingdom Information Service)

"RESEARCH at Harwell with the latest apparatus has led British scientists to the conclusion that the control of thermonuclear reactions for electricity generation may well be a possibility for the future, though its practical application is still a long way off.

"The operation of the present atomic power reactors is based on the fission (or splitting) of atoms. The possibility now being explored is the harnessing of power from the fusion (or joining) of atoms which provides the heat for the stars.

* * *

"The results obtained from the Harwell apparatus, ZETA, suggest that 'thermonuclear neutrons' have been obtained but further experiments will be necessary before this can be proved conclusively. Temperatures reached in this apparatus have been as high as five million degrees centigrade, higher than the measured surface temperatures of any star.

"Many major problems have still to be solved before its practical application can be seriously considered and the work must be expected to remain in the research stage for many years yet. If it proves ultimately possible to construct a power station operating on the fusion of deuterium the oceans of the world will provide a virtually inexhaustible source of fuel.

"On 12th August, 1957, a large experimental apparatus for studying the controlled release of energy from thermonuclear reactions was started up at the Atomic Energy Research Establishment, Harwell. On 13th August this apparatus was first operated under conditions that produced nuclear reactions; neutrons emitted in these reactions were observed when deuterium gas was heated electrically to temperatures in the region from two to five million degrees centigrade. The hot gas was isolated from the walls for periods of two to five thousandths of a second. The heating process was repeated every ten seconds. The high temperatures achieved, together with the relatively long duration for which the hot gas has been isolated from the tube walls, are the most important experimental results obtained so far. While much longer times (perhaps several seconds) are required for a useful power output, there appears to be no fundamental reason why these longer times, together with much higher temperatures, cannot be achieved.

* * *

"The source of the observed neutrons has not yet been definitely established. There are good reasons to think that they come from thermonuclear reactions, but they could also come from other reactions such as the collision of deuterons with the walls of the vessel or from the bombardment of stationary ions by deuterons accelerated by internal electric fields produced in some forms of unstable discharge.

"In the ZETA apparatus the number of neutrons was produced by each pulse of energy as the current was doubled was roughly that which might be expected from a thermonuclear reaction at the measured temperatures. These temperatures have been definitely established."

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IF I have a fault to find with Canadians, it's that they're too modest about their identity. They are backward about national symbols.

I'm referring to real Canadians, of course. Unfortunately I can't claim to be one in spite of my long residence. If I am to go by Mr. Pickersgill's yardstick I'm only sort of second-class, not even on a par with a new-born Victoria babe.

I daresay some of this is my own fault; if I'd taken elocution lessons and rubbed out my burr I might have sneaked unnoticed into the charmed circle.

And charming circle it is, else I wouldn't be hovering on its fringes.

On the other hand, though, maybe my status enables me to be more objective about such things as identity emblems.

And it's here, I think, that Canada falls down.

* * *

This is an old hobby-horse of mine and I'm not bent on argy-bargying it today. But I found some notes in Maclean's "backstage" section very interesting.

Apparently a survey has been taken among representative high-school students across the country—1,200 of them—on the Canada-first angle. It was Lord Tweedsmuir, remember, who expressed an authoritative opinion that Canadians should put Canada first in their loyalties.

The result of this survey isn't due to be released until next month but evidently Maclean's had a peep at it, and the magazine prints a box score on two related questions: a national anthem and a national flag.

In the matter of anthem preference "O Canada" is away out in front. It was favored by a combined boy and girl percentage of 29.4. The "Maple Leaf for Ever" drew votes of only 1.6 per cent, probably all from Ontario. "God Save the Queen" placed itself at a mere 1.4. Others, including something unwritten but new and different, are tabbed at a little over four per cent.

Incidentally the boys showed themselves to be slightly more nationalistic than the girls.

* * *

The flag question included a query about retention of the Fleur de Lis and/or the Union Jack, or parts of both. Only minor support went their way.

Probably because more Canadian than Canadien students were polled a joint percentage of only 1.9 was recorded for the French flower. The Union Jack managed to win a 12.8 rating, while 28.2 per cent of the students would be satisfied with parts of both emblems being retained.

The Canada-first sentiment is reflected in a desire by 35.7 per cent of students, boys and co-eds taken together, to have a completely different flag.

That sentiment is not as strong as might have been thought, however. To me the significant figures are those which cite "no answer" as having been returned to both questions.

Some 62 per cent of boys and girls alike apparently have no opinion or haven't yet made up their minds about what should be the Canadian national anthem. In the case of a national flag 18.8 per cent of the boys and 24.1 per cent of the girls had no suggestion to offer.

I would judge that the rising generation is still inhibited by the reluctance of their elders to put Canada first in national symbols.

Reports from Ottawa

ONE of the innumerable times Lester Pearson's passion for the neatly-turned phrase has shown up was when he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last summer about Canada's uneasiness over U.S. economic penetration.

"Canada," he said, "is almost virginal in this field of resources, and you know what happens to foolish virgins."

* * *

Watching and listening to the Hon. Mike in the Commons last week, I couldn't help but think how aptly a paraphrase of that quotation fits the new party leader. Pearson appeared almost virginal in this field of party leadership.

Tuesday evening, when he answered reporters' questions in front of television cameras, one newsman commented that Pearson had "mothered" the Liberal non-confidence motion. Who then had fathered it?

"The Liberal Party," Pearson replied.

Seemed to me that should have been somebody's cue to drag out the punch line of Pearson's comment to the editors.

* * *

What the reporter had been driving at was a widespread suspicion amounting almost to conviction that this cunningly-contrived Grit gambit was a product of the fertile mind of Jack Pickersgill, the former immigration minister and one-time handyman of Mackenzie King.

Not so, averred Pearson. Many Liberals had contributed suggestions which were distilled into the Liberal motion that the Tories get out and let the Grits back in without benefit of an election. Pickersgill's part was no greater than those of a good many others.

A day earlier Pickersgill had been dropping broad hints that he had devised a way to get his party off the hook. Pearson's subsequent disavowal of Pickersgill's claim to paternity may be significant. It may, of course, be only the simple truth. But it may also be a sign that Pickersgill's stature in party councils may be considerably less under the new regime than it was under the old.

Louis St. Laurent, no less than Mackenzie King, had leaned heavily on Pickersgill. Many Grits resented and feared this little cabal, and will rejoice if events prove that it ended Jan. 16, the night Pearson became Liberal leader.

* * *

Pearson was fairly plausible in attempting to explain his equivocation when the chips were down. An election, he argued, wouldn't help persons out of work. It would disrupt the government when the government should be dealing boldly and imaginatively with the problems of unemployment.

One idea he sought to convey was that it is the people—not Pearson—who would not welcome an election now. However, I suspect he and other politicians here in Ottawa are being overly solicitous about putting the voters to the bother of deciding whether they want a Tory or a Grit government.

It has not been difficult for the Tories to govern when they were proposing measures like higher pensions and tax cuts. But if a really controversial issue were to arise at a crucial time and the government were defeated over it in the Commons, the need to take two months out to settle the matter might have unfortunate and even disastrous consequences for the country.

If the voters have any serious objection to exercising their democratic right and duty as soon as possible to resolve this unfortunate stalemate in Parliament, I would be both surprised and disturbed.

But I suspect the politicians don't need to fear the people's resentment over an early election — only the people's verdict.

Commercialism's Dilemma

By GREGORY CLARK

THE first intimation that the advertising profession was losing faith in the human speaking voice as a selling medium was the singing commercial. When the singing commercial first dawned on radio, most of us listeners had developed a sort of automatic shutter in our minds. We could pull down a blind in our minds until the program resumed.

The singing commercial fooled us, for a time. Our automatic shutter didn't work, because our mechanism thought the singing was part of the entertainment.

* * *

But when everybody adopted the singing commercial our shutters were soon adjusted. Most of us, right now, could not repeat or name a single singing commercial out of the scores that are dinned into our ears every day at a cost of countless thousands of dollars' worth of programs.

But on radio, particularly, the human voice has been so down-rated as a selling medium that most of the voices you hear doing the commercials are distorted, eccentric, queer. They are high squeaks, like the tiny voices of midgets. They are twisted to sound like the voices of animals, bears, rabbits, horses. On TV, for one straight human voice commercial, you get a dozen little animated cartoon figures bouncing erratically about, with preposterous parodies of the human voice, in a desperate attempt to catch our attention.

* * *

The dilemma the advertising profession faces lies in that they have worn out the human voice and the human face as a means of normal communication.

My shutter is beginning to work even when people in the flesh speak to me.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A woman in Dayton, Ohio, recently called the police in a great state of alarm. She had been, she said, "talking to a lady on the phone a while ago and now she doesn't answer."

A few minutes later the police dispatcher announced that all was well. The episode might well have been entitled "Sorry, Wrong Slumber". The lady, it seems, had fallen asleep while talking to her friend.

On the Record

Democracy as An Excuse

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IN an earlier column I remarked that whether or not international tensions might be relaxed in the military field, competition between the democracies and the Communist world will continue and be decisive for the future orientation of mankind.

One test I noted will be on which system (or civilization) can release the greater continuing dynamism in the scientific-technological age, and this in the long run will depend upon developments in "pure" (as contrasted with "applied") scientific research.

* * *

Another test—related to the first—will, I submit, be on which system produces the higher integration of effort, brains, and policy.

In this respect the West is palpably lagging.

The United States government has just published a resume of aid projects in under-developed lands outside the Communist peripheries performed by the Soviet bloc. The critical word is "bloc". All Communist countries are participating according to an over-all plan, which uses the particular skills, experience, and available personnel of each.

The aid includes construction projects of every variety: Grain elevators, airports, hydro-electric stations, steel mills, bridges, cement plants, at least one nuclear reactor (in Egypt), oil-drilling rigs, training programs, laboratory equipment for universities.

* * *

It is not confined to Asia and Africa. Iceland is about to receive five fishing vessels under an East German credit, and Yugoslavia long-term credits in which Czechoslovakia, Poland, and East Germany participate together with the U.S.S.R. Other constructions will be financed by a joint Soviet-East German credit, which contributed to Yugoslav diplomatic recognition of the East German regime.

The "bloc" has trade agreements with Latin-American countries and grants have gone to the most pro-Western states—Pakistan, Turkey, Lebanon, Iran.

Czechoslovakia, an advanced industrial country, figures most prominently, especially in the Middle East. But Rumania, an oil-producing country, is delivering drilling rigs (to India); East Germany is constructing a sugar mill in Indonesia; Hungary, Bulgaria, and Red China are also abroad, and each is represented with technicians while training technicians for the receiving countries in Poland, Czechoslovakia, and elsewhere. Altogether the "bloc" is in to the tune of nearly $2,000,000,000, outstripping the U.S.A. in economic assistance.

* * *

The bloc also buys exports of the assisted countries and distributes them among members who can use them, or even resells them to part of the free world.

In contrast there is no co-ordinated Western program for the benefit of all concerned, though many NATO countries have an excess of qualified technicians superior in some fields to those of America.

But far from working as an organized unit, they compete with each other. The French resent American interference in North Africa, the Italians resent being effectively barred from Libya, the British press went into an uproar when West Germany selected an American plane in preference to a British, etc.

And while constantly being admonished that "America can't stand alone," we actually do go it alone in foreign aid. If there is any break in "hogging the show" it must come here. There is no co-ordinated use of currency, skills, experience, scientists, and personnel.

* * *

The democracies are not therefore in any united economic competition with the Communists.

In this particular, at least, the "bloc" is demonstrating superior integration, bolstering their claim that capitalist democracies cannot produce joint integrated economic efforts across national lines.

They certainly could, were the will there to do it.

This column is becoming a bit weary of seeing "freedom" and "democracy" used as excuses for every shortcoming.

With the Classics

Letters to the Editor

Greatest Good?

May I be allowed to reply to the letter of Eloise D. Lee in your column where she makes the statement that "democracy is generally defined as the greatest good for the greatest number." In my letter (where the G. was misprinted as S.) it was the administration of what certain people believe to be good that I objected to, along with hundreds of others I know.

Russian authorities believe certain things are good for the people and use these methods of compulsion, and the people are not left the freedom of choice that we up to now have been allowed in the taking of medicine.

Dr. Mahaffy mentioned in a letter she wrote how authorities had used salt as a medium to supply a lack of iodine in the water. I was advised by my doctor once to keep away from iodine as I had already too much being produced in my body, so I have had to go out of my way to find salt that is uniodized, but at least I have not been forced to take something that might prove harmful to me personally.

Everyone's chemical make-up is different and doctors are aware that many of the wonderful "miracle" drugs that they worked so hard to give to the world, thinking to benefit all, have had to be held back from many patients, as these drugs themselves have caused illness.

As long as there is this personal reaction to certain chemicals, it must be left to the individual to take or refrain from taking. One cannot boil down fluorides; they just become stronger with the evaporation of water, and many have not the money to buy distilled water when water is essential in all our foods. We also have not all the ability to go to outlying places to get water from other sources.

As a nation we have always been noted for our desire to protect those weaker than ourselves or in any way unable to protect themselves. Let us continue in this attitude, and may we always be allowed the protection of being able to remove anything that could prove harmful to even a few.

At one time it was the family physician's job to treat and diagnose each of his patients individually; now it seems the population is treated en masse, but at least we are still allowed the freedom to choose. Let us realize the importance and value of maintaining this freedom.

(Mrs.) G. ANDERSON,
1021 Pemberton Road, Victoria, B.C.

Their Own Fault

I have read with interest the various letters in your paper complaining of increased assessment and taxes in Saanich. Yet I see by your paper only 100 people have sent in a protest on their assessment.

There, in my opinion, is the very reason these things come to pass—complete lack of interest by the voters who aren't sufficiently interested to send in a letter of protest or even to get out and vote in election times, often when staggering amounts of their money is being spent on different projects.

Not Cowards

Taking issue with your word "slunk" used in connection with the Liberal members who left the chamber of the House of Commons, it was not a fair word: only cowards slink.

Liberals are not cowards. The members may have "done a bunk" so to speak; they may have retired from the chamber having been bested for the time being, and bested they were; but do not lump into a generalization, an overtone or an unfair thrust such undeserved verbiage.

The Liberal party was a proud party and served Canada well. They will do so again. Stature under defeat can be just as commendable as posture resulting from success. Let us recognize both, and award honor where honor is due.

Rocket Fired 90 Miles Up In Manitoba

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — Scientists fired two rockets 85 and 90 miles into the air here Monday in the fourth and fifth launchings of 1958 in International Geophysical Year tests.

The launchings were the second and third in just over 13 hours.

An Aerobee rocket launched at 12.45 p.m. CST fired off 18 signal grenades before it reached its maximum altitude of 90 miles. A 19th grenade ejected a small sphere containing an accelerometer and a small transmitter at the highest point reached.

Boy, 14, Found Dead Near Belmont Park Home

Coroner Probes Hanging

An inquest has been ordered by deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore into the death of 14-year-old Danny Fraser, who was found at 8.30 p.m. Sunday hanging from an arbutus tree about 200 yards from the shore near Esquimalt Lagoon.

His parents, PO and Mrs. Gordon Fraser, live at 469 Thetis Crescent, Belmont Park.

NO REAL LIGHT

Questioning of Danny's playmates had failed to throw any real light on the tragedy, Colwood RCMP said.

Sunday afternoon the boy had been playing with several chums. At about 3 p.m. they were seen in an area overlooking the lagoon on the Cavendish Estate, adjoining a fenced area between Royal Roads College and the Belmont housing area.

SEPARATED

At another time Danny and three other boys were seen paddling a raft on the waters of the lagoon. They separated when they came ashore.

As far as is known, Danny was alone at the time of his death. His friends last saw him at about 4 p.m.

When he had not come home by 7 p.m. Mr. Fraser reported him missing and a search was organized, under direction of Colwood RCMP.

FIREMEN, CADETS

They were assisted by Belmont naval firemen and about 30 cadets from Royal Roads.

Constables Gordon Irvine and William McKenzie directed the search, with Col. Percy Stewart Cooper, Royal Roads commandant, in charge of the cadets.

It was two of the cadets who discovered the lad's body hanging from the tree by a length of three-quarter-inch rope. Const. Irvine applied artificial respiration and the boy was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

FAVORITE SPOT

area by the lagoon shore a popular playground for boys of the district.

It projects from an outcropping of moss-covered rock, and one suggestion is that the boy may have been playing with the 18-foot length of rope in such a way as to become tangled in it, and slipped on the rock.

Around the boy's neck when he was found were large pieces of cloth, in the manner of a cape. In addition, there was what seemed to be the open topped crown of a straw hat.

The end of the rope, also around the boy's neck, had a simple snare-type noose which would have tightened on application of any weight.

Danny is survived by his parents and a brother, Gordon, 15.

Dr. Moore has ordered the inquest at 4 p.m. Wednesday at McCall's funeral home.

OLD CITY

Belfast, capital of Northern Ireland, received its first charter in 1613 but there was a settlement long before that.

Since he was a cuddly cub, Charles II, 75-pound lion mascot of U.S. 5th Mortar Battery at Mainz, Germany, has been carried to his quarters by Clarence Watson. Charlie is a bit of a burden now, but Watson doesn't mind toting his pet.—(CPC)

Steamships Gain $3 At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate trading.

Newsprints, construction and refining oils were lower. Consolidated Paper dropped 1¼ to 30¼. Gypsum Lime 1½ to 28½ and Imperial Oil ½ to 39.

Base metals and utilities were higher. Hudson Bay gained ¾ to 44.—Winnipeg and Central Gas improved 30 cents to $3.00 and Canadian International Power ¼ to 17.

Banks and pipelines were mixed. Bank of Montreal slipped ¼ to 40¾ and Trans-Mountain rose ½ to 58½.

Canada Steamships climbed 3 points to 38 in an otherwise steady carrier group. Miscellaneous stocks were firm.

Caution Returns

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices drifted off in the slowest trading in nearly two weeks.

The cautious atmosphere which surrounded the market until two weeks ago returned.

Canadian Tire had the best gain on the board, up 3½ points to 86. Winnipeg and Central Gas, a heavy loser last week, gained 15 cents to $3 in fairly active trading.

Consolidated Paper, Union Gas, Trans Mountain Pipe Line and McColl were among the heavier industrial losers. Refining oils and pipelines were lower in a solid line.

Young Stocks Hold

NEW YORK (UP) — New York Central stock held steady despite a 78 per cent decline in earnings for 1957 and the death over the week-end of its chairman Robert R. Young.

That issue and Alleghany Corp. stocks were the active features of a quieter and narrowly irregular stock list. Young also had headed Alleghany.

Late in the day Corning Glass jumped 2 points, while Johns-Manville lost 2.

The railroad group moved higher on average with Southern Pacific up a point.

Young's death appeared to have an influence on lighter volume in the rank and file of stocks.

Very few groups managed to produce a definite trend. Airlines were higher as a unit on a temporary fare increase. Allied Chemical rose nearly 2 while Du Pont lost a point and Union Carbide more than a point at their extremes. Motors eased as a group. So did shipbuilding with Newsport News hit by loss of some tanker contracts.

Several utilities strengthened.

Pulp Shares Improve

VANCOUVER—B.C. pulp and paper stocks were in better demand. Powell River sold at $33½; Crown Zellerbach Canada at $15¼ and MacMillan "B" at $24¾.

Mines were out of favor but closed above their day's lows. Bralorne was 4.90, Pioneer 1.30, Cowichan .75 and Trojan .14.

Few deals were recorded in oils.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP) — Prices were mixed and buying lagged.

Gilt-edged securities were firm following newspaper forecasts of a possible reduction in the bank rate in line with cheap money moves in other financial markets.

Steel shares eased and chain-store stocks suffered a further setback following last week's announcement by one group that it was cutting prices.

Neuberger Protests:

River Case Undermined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Richard Neuberger (Dem.-Ore.) said Monday the Federal Power Commission recommendation [illegible] Nez Perce dam may strengthen Canadian proposals to divert the Columbia River in British Columbia.

He said the recent recommendations, made in rejecting the Pacific Northwest Power Co. application to build Mountain Sheep-Pleasant Valley dams, "glosses over the dangers of a high dam like Nez Perce to migratory fish runs."

"Those of us opposing Canadian diversion of the upper Columbia River," he said, "have been relying almost exclusively on the great damage which diversion would do to the sockeye salmon migrations of the Fraser watershed . . .

"It now becomes many times more difficult to persuade our Canadian friends that they should sacrifice greatly augmented power development . . ."

Neuberger said the Canadian diversion proposals, if carried out, could end all hope of United States construction of Libby Dam in Montana as well as endanger other Columbia River system expansion.

'Taking Blame,' Says Counsel

Lionel Conacher's Sister Jailed for Vote-Padding

TORONTO (CP) — A third person was sentenced to jail Monday in connection with vote-padding in Toronto's St. Paul's riding in the June 10 federal election.

Mrs. Nora Conacher Gamble, 44, changed her plea to guilty and was sentenced to six months on each of 36 charges of forgery and uttering. The sentences will be served concurrently.

She worked at the Liberal campaign headquarters of James H. Rooney, defeated by Conservative Roland Michener, now Speaker of the Commons.

The charges arose out of a judicial inquiry into vote padding in the riding by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Defence counsel John J. Robinette said the change of plea was due to the state of Mrs. Gamble's health.

She is very nervous, he said. Mr. Robinette said her actions were due to "political enthusiasm rather than personal profit or gain."

He admitted his client was "taking the blame but she is not solely responsible for this.

"She comes from a Canadian family of humble origin which rose to distinguish itself by its own efforts," he said :"She is a sister of the late Liberal MP Lionel Conacher, Canadian athlete of the half-century, and who, at the time of his death, was on the threshold of a great political future."

Roy Wray was elected president of the Victoria Camera Club at the annual meeting at the Art Gallery.

Sam Marling is vice-president and Dora Payne, secretary.

Victoria's Minor Hockey Talent on Display

It was "Minor Hockey Night" at Memorial Arena last night and 375 youngsters from all divisions of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association displayed their hockey talents before an enthusiastic crowd of about 1,800. One of the most impressive moments of the night came during opening ceremonies, when players and their coaches lined up to be presented to the crowd and to hear from guest speakers Mayor Percy Scurrah and Ed Dorohoy of Victoria Cougars. All proceeds from the "night" go toward purchasing equipment for the ever-growing association. — (Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

'Minor Hockey Night' Proves Huge Success

By JIM TAYLOR

They were all at Memorial Arena last night, every member of Victoria's minor hockey system from the smallest flyweight to the biggest junior, and their annual "night" was an unqualified success.

About 1,800 fans turned out to "Minor Hockey Night," watching six games of fast, enthusiastic hockey played by 375 members of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association. Because of the fine support, the association realized close to $2,000. The money will go toward the purchase of new equipment to be used in the ever-expanding program.

There were boys of all sizes taking part in last night's program, but as is always the case, the smaller the player the more enthusiastic the response. So it was that the flyweight and pee-wee divisions, featuring boys about the height of the average hockeystick, received the lion's share of the attention.

WORKED BOTH WAYS

It was a treat for boys who usually play their hockey in an empty arena to have a crowd on hand to cheer their every move. It was also a treat for the crowd to watch the youngsters displaying the lessons they have learned in early-morning coaching sessions.

All the mannerisms of the professional player were evident at times, especially in the case of the younger players.

Additional Sport Pages 9 and 10

Sticks pounded the ice when a disgusted player missed a shot, and almost all of the 375 youngsters were working furiously on a stick of gum.

One member of one of the smaller teams, a hockey veteran of perhaps 11 years of age, came off the ice, spat expertly turned to his friend and remarked seriously, "Gee, but that ice was in rough shape tonight!" He said it with the certainty of a Maurice Richard.

EVERYBODY PLAYED

But despite the effort they made to conceal the fact, the boys were in a high state of excitement and their turns on the ice were eagerly awaited. Unfortunately, because of the number of boys to a team — usually about 25 or 30—these turns were only two or three in number.

So great was the press of boys that they overflowed the players' boxes and spilled into the tunnels underneath the stands. Here, with players waiting their turn to get out and play, the atmosphere had the feeling of a Broadway opening.

Two boys whose names didn't appear on the roster of any of the teams almost succeeded in stealing the show in the early stages.

TWO-GOAL EFFORT

First it was Patrick McKilligan, so tiny he had to be helped around the ice by a referee. With the assistance, he scored two goals, and the fact that there were no other players on the ice bothered him not a whit.

Then it was Ian Taylor, not much bigger. He came on the ice with the bantams and proudly took his turn on the ice during the warm-ups, obviously well-pleased at working out with "the big fellas."

The games themselves, all six of them, were solid entertainment from start to finish. Flyweight teams played first, and the Reds edged the Blues, 2-1. Then the bigger pee wee's took over, Gold and Greens teams playing to a 2-2 tie.

Reds edged Blues, 2-1, in midget all-star action, and Blacks defeated Maroons, 3-1, in the bantam division. Victoria juniors shut out the juveniles, 3-0.

CITY TEAM WINS

Feature game of the night was between the Victoria and Nanaimo midget division all-stars. It was a thriller from start to finish, and the city team finally nipped the up-Islanders, 1-0, on a goal by Pat Donnelly at 13.40 of the first period.

The goal was a good example of the teamwork the club displayed. Donnelley was set up for the goal on a perfect pass from Pearson Morri at the blue line and skated in alone to score.

STOLE THE SHOW

But perhaps the outstanding player on the ice was 12-year-old David Woodley. Woodley, a fast and tricky skater, was sent out on the ice three times for the Greens in the pee-wee game, and scored both their goals. On both occasions, he showed the hockey sense that has association officials predicting a bright future in the game for him.

Guest speakers at the official opening ceremonies were Mayor Percy Scurrah, who described the hockey program as "an antidote for juvenile delinquency," and Eddie Dorohoy, star centre for Victoria Cougars.

Dorohoy, in making his observations of the games, closed with "I see several future members of the Cougars here, but as you know, we could use them now."

Cougars Play Hart In Game Tomorrow; Anderson Returns

Victoria Cougars will have one new player in action, perhaps two, when they square off against New Westminster Royals in a Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena tomorrow night.

Playing-coach Pat Egan announced yesterday that the deal for winger Art Hart of the Seattle Americans had been completed and that Hart is scheduled to play his first game for the Cougars tomorrow.

Hart was obtained in a deal which saw the Americans obtain the services of forwards Frank Milne and Blinky Boyer. The deal is for the balance of the season only, the players involved remaining the property of their former clubs.

There is also a chance that Doug Anderson, five-season veteran with the Cougars, might see his first action tomorrow. Anderson has been working out with the Victoria club but is not expected to start until Saturday's game here against the Americans.

Twenty-two points behind the Americans with only 27 games left, the Cougars have six games left with the Seattle club and need to win all six to brighten their dim playoff chances. That would cut the margin to 10 points and give the Victoria club a faint chance if the Americans should go into a prolonged slump. The Seattle club has now lost four in a row and has to play Vancouver three times and the Cougars once in its next four games.

Americans' fourth successive defeat came on Sunday night when Edmonton Flyers completed a highly-successful western division jaunt with a 5-4 win which gave them five points out of a possible eight.

Colin Kilburn scored twice for the Flyers, his fourth and fifth goal in five games with his new club. Coach Tony Leswick also scored twice for the winners, while Jerry Melnyk got their fifth goal. Don Chiupka, picking on someone besides the Cougars for a change, got his 15th and 16th goals for the Americans.

Americans picked up a new defenceman yesterday, obtaining Gordie Tottle, 10-year American Hockey League veteran from Calgary Stampeders. Tottle, who has been on the injured list, is in his first WHL season. He was reportedly offered to the Cougars along with winger Enio Sclisizzi for Colin Kilburn but the Victoria club turned the deal down.

Esks Name Oklahoma Coach; Venturi Hits Golf Jackpot

Edmonton Eskimos, Western Conference champions for the past four years who lost out in their bid for a fourth straight Grey Cup championship last season, have dipped into their favorite football barrel—University of Oklahoma—for a new head coach.

Selected from among 30 applicants for the job of directing the powerful Eskimos was 35-year-old Melvin 'Sam' Lyle, who has been an assistant coach at Oklahoma for four years. He succeeds Frank Ivy, who came to Edmonton four years ago from Oklahoma and left recently to sign as head coach of Chicago Cardinals.

"One of the strongest persuasives in Lyle's case was his Oklahoma background," club president Cec Ross said yesterday.

"The feeling among the directors was that the fans would favor a continuation of the tie-up with the University of Oklahoma in view of what it has meant to us over the last four or five seasons."

Ivy was an Oklahoman through and through, having played and coached with the Sooners and his success—three Grey Cups in his first three years with Eskimos—says much for Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson.

Many of Edmonton's outstanding players have been from Oklahoma, including Frank Anderson, Kurt Burris, Roger Nelson and Joe Mobra.

Lyle has asked that Eskimo assistant Eagle Keys be retained and he is expected to bring another assistant to bring the staff up to three again.

Lyle has eight seasons of coaching experience behind him, one at Louisiana State, three as an assistant at Georgia Tech and four at Oklahoma under Wilkinson. As coach and player, he has been involved in six different bowl games.

A professional golfer for only 13 months but considered one of the hottest prospects on the tournament trail, 26-year-old Ken Venturi fired his fourth sub-par round Sunday to take top money of $1,500 and win a new $1,500 automobile in the $15,000 Thunderbird Open.

The smooth-swinging Venturi added a one-under-par 70 to previous rounds of 70-63-66 and wound up with a 72-hole score of 269, 15 strokes under par. He finished four strokes ahead of three-time winner Jimmy Demaret and Gene Littler.

Stan Leonard of Canada fired his second straight 66, a sizzling five strokes under par, to finish fourth at 274 with Jack Burke and Don Fairfield. Leonard started shakily with a 74 on the first day but started his comeback with a 68 on Friday.

SARAZEN WINS: Chunky Gene Sarazen, top golfer in the United States a generation ago, battled back from five strokes off the pace Monday and captured his second PGA seniors' golf championship. The 55-year-old Sarazen, two-time U.S. Open champion, shot a sizzling two-under par 70 yesterday to wind up the 72-hole even with an even par 288 and a three-stroke edge over Charlie Sheppard . . . George Chuvalo of Toronto floored Julio Mederos twice in the second round last night and went on to score a unanimous 10-round decision over Cuban heavyweight at Toronto . . . Ashley Cooper retained his Australian tennis title yesterday as he turned back a weary Mal Anderson, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4, in an all-Aussie final. Anderson earlier yesterday completed a gruelling semi-final match against Mervyn Rose, winning out 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, 19-17.

Both Champions Reach Final Of City Badminton Tourney

Defending champions reached the finals in both the men's and women's championship singles brackets last night as play got under way in the annual city badminton tournament at the Amphion Street Hall of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Harvey Hurd, who won the city title for the first time last year, will meet former champion Bob Hunt in the men's final, while stylish Maureen Bray will defend her women's singles crown against junior Sharon Whittaker.

Hurd, Canadian junior singles champion, defeated Ed Hedley, 15-11, 15-7, in his semi-final match last night. Hunt downed Mel Chapman, 15-11, 15-13.

In the ladies' event, Mrs. Bray defeated last year's finalist, Bev Anderson, 11-9, 11-7. Miss Whittaker, a southpaw shotmaker, who has been improving steadily of late, beat Jane Lee, 11-1, 11-6.

Both Miss Lee and Miss Whittaker had entered the tournament under the banner of Victoria College.

Under the new system being used for the tournament, events are played from the first round out to the semi-finals in one night's activity. Finals in all events are scheduled Saturday.

In ladies' veterans' duobles action, Mrs. D. Salmon and Miss Barbara Atkins reached the final and will play Barbara Ford and Jill Crampton.

Play begins tonight at 7 in the ladies' doubles, "A," "B" and "C" divisions, and the men's veterans' doubles. Because of heavy draw, officials announced last night that the mixed doubles scheduled Friday will start at 6 instead of 7 p.m. in the "A," "B" and "C" classes.

Regals Tighten Grip; Beat Trailing Stamps

SASKATOON—Saskatoon St. Paul Regals protected their third-place standing in the Eastern Division of the Western Hockey League Monday night by scoring a 5-3 win.

Victory boosted Regals' advantage over the Stampeders to three points.

Defenceman Bill Bucyk's second goal of the season proved to be winner after the Stamps had come from behind a 1-3 deficit to pull upon even terms. Bob Kabel put it out of Calgary reach with less than three minutes left when he clicked on a play with rookie Reg Primeau.

It was the third point of the evening for the improving Primeau, who scored Regals' first two goals after Sid Finney had put Stamps in front with the first goal of the game.

Doug Bentley got his first goal of the season midway through the third period, a clever effort which saw him outfox Calgary defenders. But Barry Ross scored late in the second period and Fred Hucul blazed a shot past Lucien Dechene at 8.18 of the third period to tie it up.

Dechene and Al Rollins, Calgary netminder, were the individual stars of the fast, crowd-pleasing action, both saving their clubs repeatedly with a series of brilliant stops.

Stone Upset in Zone Play; Still Has Chance for Brier

Skip Reg Stone, who has represented British Columbia five times in the Canadian curling championships, was upset in the West Kootenay zone playdowns on Sunday and his Brier chance this year now depends on his form in the annual B.C. Bonspiel at Penticton, February 3-10.

Finalists in the two primary events at the B.C. Bonspiel will join the eight zone champions in a double-draw knockout series which will decide the B.C. representative for the Canadian championships, scheduled to start in Victoria on March 3. That Stone will compete in the B.C. Bonspiel is taken for granted and it is still too early to count the cool Trail skip out of things.

Winner of the West Kootenay zone playdowns was a Trail rink skipped by Gil LeMoel, who beat Stone in the final of the first of the double knockout series with a fine last shot.

Stone then was knocked out of the second competition in his next game, losing to youthful John Chesser of Rlondel, son of Cec Chesser, well-known B.C. veteran.

The younger Chesser then lost to Rod Carmichael of Trail, who went on to defeat the elder Chesser and Len Peerless of Nelson to qualify to meet LeMoel in the final.

Carmichael's rink, playing its fourth game of the day, was no match for LeMoel, losing 11-4.

Curling with LeMoel are Bob Ross, third; Don McDonald, second, and Ray Garipy, lead.

LeMoel's win brought to five the number of zone champions crowned. Harold Jordon of Kimberley, who represented B.C. in the Brier in 1956, has won the East Kootenay zone. Buck Glover's Vancouver Curling Club rink won out in Vancouver. Bill Hoffman's Chilliwack will represent the Fraser Valley and Tony Gutoski of Victoria is the Vancouver Island champion.

Fifth-Round FA Draw Favors Manchester U

LONDON — Manchester United, the top-rated club in the Football Association Cup competition, has drawn relatively easy opposition for its fifth-round match but Wolverhampton Wanderers, listed as the second favorites, may find the going tougher in the round of 16.

United, established as the 9-2 favorites to win the final next May, will meet either last-place Sheffield Wednesday of the English League's first division or Hull City, which stands about midway in the third division northern tables.

Wanderers, leading the first division and listed at 13-2 odds, will play either Chelsea or Darlington. Chelsea holds eighth place in the first division but was held to a stunning draw by lowly Darlington of the third division north in fourth-round play Saturday.

Fourth-round replays will be completed this week and the fifth round will be played Feb. 15.

Sunday's scores: Gorge Hotel 11, Canadian Hungarians 0. Victoria Kickers 3, Canadian Scottish 1. Brodie's Bakery 6, Punjab United 2.

Canadian Hungarians, who had to fight to stay in the Victoria and District Football League, could be excused Sunday if they wondered why they wanted to stay in the first place.

Hungarians were hammered, 11-0, by Gorge Hotel at Beacon Hill Park Sunday to drop deeper into the cellar with their fourth defeat in as many starts. In those four second-half games, [illegible] 26 goals scored against them and managed to score only four themselves.

Bill Abbott paced the rout while Jack McIntyre, Bill Hope and Don McGee added two apiece. Single goals went to Bob Clarke and Dune McCague.

Victoria kept the Gorgemen within two points of Brodie's Bakery, which romped to its sixth straight second-half victory, 6-2, over Punjab United at Heywood Avenue Park.

Henry Vanderhorst, with two, Alf Heegan, Joe Hillhouse, Leroy Bond and Don Hughes got the goals for Bakers. Chris Baun and Adrian Hendrickson scored for Punjab in the first half.

Helmut Schmitsch, Antol Major and Willie Voght tallied for Victoria Kickers, who downed Canadian Scottish, 3-1, at Topaz Avenue Park. Roy Jackson got the Scottish goal in the first half.

At Ladysmith, Esquimalt was beaten, 5-2, by the host club in an exhibition game.

Wide-Open Fight for Playoff Berths; Hawks Boost Chances, Edge Rangers

Naming the three clubs which will join Montreal Canadiens in the Stanley Cup playdowns is just as difficult today as it was at the start of the National Hockey League season.

With two-thirds of the schedule completed, only eight points separate the sixth-place Chicago Black Hawks from the second-place New York Rangers. The Hawks have two games in hand and the Rangers appear to be slipping fast.

Toronto	47	16	21	10	132	152	42

Sunday's scores: Montreal 2 at Detroit 4. Toronto 3 at Boston 3. New York 3 at Chicago 4.

Next games: Tomorrow: Chicago at Toronto. Boston at New York.

Winners of only three of their last 13 games, the Rangers saw a three-year jinx ended at Chicago Sunday night when they lost, 4-3. It was the first time since Jan. 30, 1955, that the Hawks have been able to beat the New York club when it had Lorne Worsley in goal.

Andy Bathgate scored twice for the Rangers and made the play for their third goal, but it wasn't enough. The Hawks took a 3-2 lead in the second period and were never headed again.

CANYENS LOSE

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings took advantage of the New York defeat to move closer to the runners-up. The Wings surprised Montreal Canadians, 4-2, despite having to play without Gordie Howe, while the Bruins made another story-book finish to salvage a 3-3 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Trailing, 1-3, with less than four minutes left, the Bruins got close when Don McKenney scored his fourth goal of the last three games at 16.20 of the final period. The Bruins were attacking with six players when McKenney started the play which ended with Leo Labine just beating the clock to get the tie.

Labine's goal came just one second before the final buzzer.

WIN STREAK ENDS

Veteran centre Alex Delvecchio took over the role usually played by Howe, scoring twice and setting up the clinching goal as the Wings overcame a 1-2 deficit to end Canadiens' latest win streak at three games.

Adams Charges 'Dirty Play' In Injury to Detroit Star

Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins and general-manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings locked horns in a bitter verbal battle yesterday after Adams hurled charges of "dirty play" in the collision that sent Detroit star Gordie Howe to hospital with two broken ribs.

Howe, who recently led the mid-season balloting for the National Hockey League's most valuable player award, was injured in a collision with Boston defenceman Leo Boivin in a nationally-televised game Saturday.

"The Bruins got what they wanted," Adams stormed yesterday. "They got Howe out of our lineup. I don't know who planned it, but Real Chevrefils and Boivin got the job done!

"It was lousy, dirty, uncalled for—anything you want to call it," the grizzled manager said. "It's one hell of a way to play hockey!"

Adams claimed Chevrefils "steered Howe right into Boivin—and then Boivin gave Howe the butt end of his stick right up under his hip pads."

Schmidt, every bit as angry as Adams, retaliated swiftly.

"How anyone can say anything as ridiculous as Adams did is beyond me. There's no foundation to it whatever. The incident happened right in front of our bench and it was absolutely unintentional — a very innocent bodycheck. As for Adams' claim that the incident might have been planned, why that's as silly as all the rest."

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL has stepped into the argument, saying he will ask Adams for an explanation of his remarks as soon as he receives a formal referee's report.

Walter Brown, president of the Bruins, termed Adams' charges "childish."

Floyd to Defend in London; Erskine Probable Opponent

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in 25 years a world heavyweight title boxing match will be held outside the United States when Floyd Patterson defends his championship in London in late June. The probable opponent is Joe Erskine, a Welshman who holds the British Empire crown.

Erskine, 24, has lost only once in 31 professional fights. He was stopped in the first round by Cuba's Nino Valdes last February in London.

To clinch the Patterson match, Erskine must defeat Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, European champion, in a Feb. 21 bout in Sweden.

Promoter Harry Levene of London and Patterson's manager Cus D'Amato, Monday issued a joint statement after reaching "an agreement in principle." No financial terms were disclosed.

Levene said he hopes to stage the fight in London's Wembley Stadium, which can handle 85,000 people.

Levene and D'Amato refused to be pinned down on what would happen to the match if Erskine should lose to Johansson.

"We have one or two ideas in mind," said Levene.

RADEMACHER TO SUB?

It has been known that D'Amato figured on boxing an American in London if Erskine should be beaten. It could be Pete Rademacher, former amateur king stopped by Patterson last August.

The last time a heavyweight champion put his title on the line outside the U.S. was in 1933 when Primo Carnera went home to Italy and fought Paolino Uzcudun in Rome. Carnera won a decision in 15 rounds.

The 23-year-old champion, who won his title by knocking out Archie Moore in 1956, defended twice in 1957. He stopped Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in 10 rounds and Rademacher in six rounds.

January ratings of the National Boxing Association, do not carry Erskine among the top 10. Johansson is No. 7.

MacNutts Salvage Tie To End Long Drought

MacNutt's Grocery picked up its first point in almost two seasons in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association Sunday, coming from behind twice to salvage a 2-2 tie with Mariners in their Division II match at Windsor Park.

Tom Collett gave Mariners a 1-0 lead early in the game, but Dick Gibson pulled the Grocers even before the first half ended. Then, after Barney Fredrickson had put Mariners in front again, ex-Mariner Norm Hirons fired the shot that gave the Grocers their point.

In Division I action, John Balloch scored twice to pace Texacos to a 5-1 win over Langford Buffaloes. Barry Saddler, Wayne Garrington and Dave Reece got the other goals for Texacos, and Dave Kewon replied for Buffaloes.

Remember When:

Defenceman Eddie Shore returned to the Boston Bruins lineup 24 years ago tonight after a 16-game suspension from NHL play, following the historic Ace Bailey incident. Bailey, Toronto forward, had suffered a fractured skull in collision with Shore at Boston, ending his playing career. After Bailey's recovery, 11,000 fans at a game in Toronto cheered as Bailey and Shore clasped hands in friendship.

WHAT IS KING SIZE?

King Size is a Trade Name first used in the world, in 1937, by the Rothmans group to denote extra quality plus extra length. Rothmans offered this attractive, extra value cigarette at the same price as short cigarettes, because the extra tobacco put into them did not require more tax than was paid on short cigarettes.

The inventor's definition of a King Size cigarette is: "The maximum amount of tobacco in a cigarette that can be sold without extra tax imposed by government on overweight".

In Canada, The Canadian Excise Act which determines the tax to be paid on cigarettes reads as follows: "Cigarettes weighing not more than two and one half pounds per thousand, four dollars per thousand. Rep. and new. 1952-53, c.34, c.3."

If cigarettes weigh more than 2½ lbs. per 1000 in Canada, the tax is increased to $5.00 per 1000 or 2 cents per pack more. Therefore, in accordance with the inventor's definition, Canadian made Rothmans King Size cigarettes weigh precisely 2½ lbs. per 1000. This provides the public with a cigarette which is 80 millimeters long, that is 11% longer than short cigarettes.

In the U.S.A., the tax does not increase until cigarettes weigh over 3 lbs. per 1000. In that country, in accordance with the inventor's definition, King Size cigarettes are 85 millimeters in length.

The stylish length and the extra value of the Rothmans King Size cigarette invention rapidly became fashionable and appreciated all over the world. It has been like the mighty oak growing from the tiny acorn. And thus it has come to pass that the Rothmans trade name "King Size" has become a favourite adjective in many countries and many languages the world over to describe anything of unusually generous proportion.

Coffee Breaks Boost Taxes

CALGARY (CP)—Mayor Don Mackay warned senior civic officials, supervisors and foremen Monday that morning and afternoon coffee breaks for all departments, whether involving inside or outside workers, will be cancelled if abused.

Several minutes lost each day could amount to a waste of large amounts of taxpayers' money, he said.

City commissioners have estimated that if 3,000 civic employees lost 10 minutes each day—based on a wage of $2 an hour—the total loss would amount to 833 man hours or $8,330 a week and $116,000 a year.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

[illegible] stainless steel flatware has been [illegible] in a wide variety of [illegible] designs available for [illegible] and discriminating hostess. Made in Canada [illegible] resistant surface that is easy to keep clean and lasts for a lifetime. Stainless steel flatware [illegible] with Inco Nickel.

There's INCO NICKEL in modern Canadian-made stainless steel flatware

STAINLESS STEEL flatware in smart modern designs is now produced in Canada.

And practically all of it contains Inco Nickel, because most of the stainless steel used in flatware is made in Canada with Inco Nickel.

Inco Nickel starts out as raw ore at Inco's mines near Sudbury, Ontario. Down in the mines, workmen blast out the nickel-bearing ore. It is milled and smelted at Copper Cliff. Then it goes to Inco's refinery at Port Colborne. A Canadian steel company uses this refined nickel to make stainless steel. In the form of strip, this stainless steel goes to Canadian flatware manufacturers where it is fabricated into knives, forks and spoons.

All these operations help provide jobs for thousands of workmen. In this way, Inco Nickel helps stimulate the growth and development of industry in Canada.

Police Force In London May Get Guns

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland Yard, troubled by a steep rise in the London crime rate, [illegible] set up a permanent panel of law experts to study new crime fighting methods.

All kinds of crime increased in the metropolis during 1957, and the Yard has authorized a crack 300-man police methods [illegible]

The Yard may arm detectives with crime fighting guns for the first time in its history. Bobbies on the beat carried only truncheons, handcuffs, dignity and a great deal of respect.

But the sharp graph for 1957 jolted the Yard into seeking new means of combatting a rising wave of offences. There were 26 murders in the area last year, a slight increase over 1956, but other crimes increased astonishingly.

The Yard also is concerned especially over an increase of [illegible] per cent in the number of stolen auto [illegible]

[illegible] by means to combat other crimes. Yard chiefs believe if the car theft figure could be reduced, it also would check bank robberies and payroll raids.

Scotland Yard's flying squads, fleet of well-equipped police cruisers, last year dealt with almost 1,000,000 incidents, including about 40,000 emergency calls.

By [illegible] the Yard's recent [illegible] the new panel of experts may be able to increase these detectives' [illegible] days, week and [illegible] new ways of [illegible] down on free-wheeling thieves.

"I think we have the big ships coming back to Victoria," said Mr. Webb.

He stated he had written to the Matson Line and Hamburg-American Line asking the services of the Leilani and suggesting that their ships call here again. The ban [illegible] have [illegible] from the Pacific coast to Hawaii, Australia and Europe.

Bitter Exchange Flares in House

A bitter verbal battle between former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers and George Gregory (L., Victoria) jolted the legislature yesterday.

Mr. Sommers accused the city lawyer of being "yellow" and having no guts.

Mr. Sommers is charged over a case now before the courts with conspiracy to accept bribes on the issuance of forest management licences. Mr. Gregory at one time represented Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, who first brought the allegations to light more than two years ago.

CONGRATULATIONS

Yesterday's heated exchange began when Mr. Gregory said he wanted to congratulate the former minister on recovering his health, apparently a reference to the fact that Mr. Sommers faced to proceed with his slander suit against Mr. Sturdy for health reasons.

"What do you know about it?" interjected Mr. Sommers.

"Possibly a lot more than you think," replied Mr. Gregory.

Giant British Gun Arrives For New Destroyer Escort

A new 35-ton British gun for one of the Canadian Navy's newest ships will be delivered to the RCN at Esquimalt graving dock today.

Accompanied by 15 large [illegible] flatcars and other [illegible] the giant load will be lifted from the Holland [illegible] passenger vessel Diemerdyk at about 8 a.m.

Yesterday, the Diemerdyk unloaded at Ogden Point a large crane equipment for the Spencer rebuilding job and a [illegible] of 100 pipes on the 40-year-old organ at Christ Church Cathedral.

A naval spokesman said the gun was a new automatic twin rapid firing weapon, something like the twin 3-inch 50s now in use on the new anti-submarine destroyer escorts of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

[illegible] Sioux, Skeena, Fraser and Margaree, among seven St. Laurent class destroyer escorts built in Canada, are the fourth and Seven more destroyer escorts are being built in the naval program and because of refinements and new developments are considered as being in an other class, the Restigouche class.

These will carry the new guns, a refinement or improvement on the 3-inch 50s, the naval spokesman said. Today's gun delivery, about which the navy would release few details, is slated for the Terra Nova nearing completion at Victoria Machinery Depot.

Another such weapon is destined for the Kootenay, being built at Vancouver.

The Diemerdyk sails for Vancouver after unloading the gun. Victoria agents are George Pamin Ltd.

Martin's Hoxsey Report Move Drowns Out CCF Chief's Solo

GUERRILLA WARFARE: [illegible] of the devious forms of strategy that go to make up the rules, invented or modified practically to be judged from events that took place yesterday.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan kicked off the opening salvo attacking government principles in the Throne Speech debate. Health Minister Kenneth Martin tabled the long awaited Hoxsey cancer cure report.

There's a lot more behind the fact that both took place the same day. Normally, the leader of the opposition is the main speaker of the day and thus gets the major play in the newspapers next day. But by tabling the Hoxsey report the government managers to steal some of the spotlight, some of the headlines away from Mr. Strachan.

Last reporter asked Mr. Martin yesterday whether he hoped to take some of the headlines away from Mr. Strachan. "Oh is Bob due to speak today?" answered a wide-eyed Mr. Martin in a tone meant to convey that he had no idea such was the case.

But actually the last laugh is on the government.

The CCF had a premonition that this would be the case and made their move last Friday in the unemployment squabble.

GUEST STARS: Special guest at yesterday's sitting was George Black, former long term Conservative for the Yukon. He was first elected to the Commons in 1921, was appointed speaker in 1930 and resigned for "some reasons" in 1935. He was again elected in 1940 and 1945 but declined the nomination in 1949.

In the Speaker's Gallery yesterday proudly surveying the scene was 83-year-old Samuel R. Gibson, father of recently elected Gordon Gibson, Liberal, who made his maiden speech in second reading the reply to the Throne Speech debate.

Beauty in the Bark

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Some trees and shrubs are planted for utility value of their fruit or berries, some for the beauty of their flowers and a few, cypress juniper and the like, for their architectural form. But in addition to these there are a scant half-dozen or so which pay for the ornamental value of their bark.

Pride of place for winter beauty must be accorded the birches, the Betula family, all of graceful habit and most of them possessing bark of a distinctive white or cream color. Betula papyrifera, the paper birch, is the one most commonly planted for the silvery sheen of its bark and the lovely red tracery of its twigs. A cousin, Betula nigra, is not so well known nor as striking and is more attractive with a rich cream-colored bark and rust-brown twigs.

For deep, rich cream of bark, our native Arbutus has no peer. This tree secretes certain sap chemicals which penetrate the bark layers so that each layer takes on a different, wonderful color. These peel off in strips in summer to expose shades of terra cotta, jade yellow and rose, with a suede-like surface quite unlike the bark of any other tree.

One thing has always puzzled me about the Arbutus: why is it that the [illegible] even on the hottest summer day?

The most dramatic and eye-catching bark I ever saw was that of a cherry, Prunus serrula, not to be which is the Japanese flowering cherry. Prunus serrula is no great showy for its flowers and the fruit is too small to be of any use, but the winter beauty of its bark is one of this world. You'd swear, to look at it, that the tree had covered itself with a sheet of burnished copper.

The willows and dogwoods, both provide us with a wonderful winter bark color, but need hard pruning to keep up a plentiful supply of young shoots, for only the young portions of these trees keep the attractive shades. The Violet Willow, Salix daphnoides, has violet-colored stems covered with a blue-white bloom like the bloom on the skin of a grape while the golden willow, Salix vitellina aurea, has a hue of shining butter-yellow.

I have seen Cornus alba, the Siberian red dogwood, used very effectively [illegible] these attractive during the winter months by value of its rich red stems. It has a golden-stemmed relative, Cornus flaviramea, the yellow-barked dogwood.

For shrubs which not only possess vivid green bark but which are most attractive in bloom are Kerria japonica or Jew's Mallow and Leycesteria formosa, sometimes known as Grandmother's Ruffles by reason of the pendent clusters of purple flowers. With both [illegible] the flowering stems should be pruned away annually [illegible] the bark. The Leycesteria can be grown from seed as easily as a [illegible].

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

I don't know about you but CBC's demonstration of subliminal perception advertising so quick you can't see it but your mind feels it on Close-up Sunday did nothing to me at all.

It was said that the message telephone rang was flashed on screen [illegible] Dorothy Kilgallen of Winnipeg asked by CBC especially to watch the show got the message he phoned his parents-in-law in Toronto immediately. CBC asked the public if anybody else got the word but nobody did. If anybody did if Victoria please let me know.

* * *

But Channel [illegible] Farm [illegible] why he smoked a pipe.

'Miniature' X-Rays Scored

B.C. hospital and health authorities have been reminded that provincial health department policy is against "miniature" chest X-rays for children under 15.

"We have had the policy for a long time," deputy health minister Dr. G. F. Amyot said. "It has just been enunciated again."

He made this statement in commenting on a report that miniature X-rays for children under 15 had been banned in Vancouver "with some exception."

Dr. Amyot said the reason for the policy was that so little tuberculosis was found in children under 15 that there was no need to expose them to X-ray radiation except in special circumstances. Result of radiation was cumulative, he said, "and the thing is to keep it to a minimum."

The Vancouver report said the "miniature" X-ray—the type commonly used for routine chest examinations, producing a small picture—caused from 15 to 18 times more radiation than the larger kind.

Floral Celebration May Highlight Year

Tourist trade group of the chamber of commerce has struck a committee to study a floral celebration as a possible centennial project.

Suggestion was made that Victoria plan a short festival along the lines organized in Adelaide, Australia, where citizens contribute large quantities of cut flowers to be made into competitive shapes and designs by school children for charity groups.

The group will also urge business firms in Victoria to install window boxes or flower baskets at or near all downtown shops.

Intense, Glowing Works Reflect Mediterranean

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

The burning color of the Mediterranean coast has been transferred to canvas in the most recent work of Jack Shadbolt.

For the past year he has been in the south of France on a government fellowship and has brought back with him enough work for three major exhibitions, one in North Vancouver, one in Seattle and the one now being shown here.

STRIDENT PINKS

Gone are the rich blacks, browns and reds of his previous periods and strident pinks, vivid greens and pure blues take their place.

Only an artist of Shadbolt's calibre could handle such colors successfully. The canvases literally glow. "The Night Beach" and "Farms on the Steps," though different in approach, achieve an intensity of color seldom seen in paint.

His use of strips of stiff cardboard with which to apply the paint in horizontal bands, seems to keep the colors clear and pure.

More traditional in manner is the lovely "Cemetery at Castellar" with its quieter use of color.

The paintings are in two groups, the boat series, painted at Callioure and the wider range of subject matter gathered in and around Menton.

Shadbolt's change of style is often disconcerting, flatly painted foregrounds in richly greyed colors lead to objects painted in three dimensions in pure spectrum hues. Why not? The result is successful.

The change from the sombre greens and greys of our province to the vibrant intensity of the south of France cannot be fully absorbed by any painter in a matter of months.

WHAT LIES AHEAD?

It will be interesting to see what lies ahead and whether Shadbolt will become more abstract. His luminous canvas entitled "Abstraction" seems to point this way.

He has brought back plenty of material including dozens of magnificent drawings which show the artist's intensive search for the bones and structure of his subjects. Some of them include color notes for future use.

One feels that there is a further goal, that this artist intends to use this phase as a preparation for things to come.

Different Viscounts

MONTREAL (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines spokesman says Viscount aircraft used in Canada are of a later model than those grounded Saturday by Air France, Aer Lingus and British European Airways because of suspected wing trouble.

He said TCA, which uses the later Viscount 754, would not be affected.

The 701's were withdrawn following reports of corrosion and cracks in the wing of a 701 owned by Air France.

The TCA spokesman said different materials were used in the wing spars of TCA's Viscount 754's.

Gregory Urges Past Licences Be Rechecked

Thorough investigation into every forest management licence ever awarded to determine whether or not they were granted on their merits should be made by Gordon Sloan immediately, George Gregory (L., Victoria) said in the legislature yesterday.

He said it woud be no easy task, but that every licence right back to No. 1 should be investigated.

PLEASED AT CHOICE

The Victoria member, speaking in the Throne Speech debate, said he was pleased that a man of the calibre of former chief justice Sloan had been chosen as "forest boss."

It was, however, "dreadful" that forestry was in such a mess that it had been found necessary to take one of the finest jurists off the bench and put him in charge of forestry, he said.

'NO MORE'

Noting that Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne had also left the bench for a forestry job with MacMillan and Bloedel, Mr. Gregory said he hoped no more judges would be tempted to leave the bench, no matter what inducements were offered.

In view of the present charges against former land and forests minister Robert Sommers and some companies, he said, the whole forest management licence system should be investigated.

"No matter what the outcome of the charges, the first thing that Mr. Sloan should do is to completely investigate the question to see whether the holders got their licences on their merits or otherwise," he continued.

Mr. Gregory said he regretted there was no mention of a new courthouse for Victoria mentioned in the Throne Speech.

"I must confess I have doubts whether the minister (Works Minister W. N. Chant) is sufficiently cognizant of the needs for a new court house in Victoria," he said.

IN A CLOSET

"When the exchequer court sits here next month, it will sit in the small debts court, and the small debts court sits in a closet," said Mr. Gregory as members laughed. "If they took the files away the walls would fall down."

The Victoria member also criticized the Municipal Act, passed in a hurry last session, and termed it a "frightful, absolutely frightful, piece of legislation."

"I doubt very much whether the minister of municipal affairs (Wesley Black) read it for himself, because if he had he wouldn't have foisted it on the people of B.C.," said Mr. Gregory.

Shawnigan Drowning

Rescue Bid Cited For Recognition

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury which last night found the death by drowning of eight-year-old Kenneth Thomas of Victoria accidental, recommended that the "brave" rescue attempt of store proprietor Patrick Mason be recorded with the Royal Humane Society for proper recognition.

Mr. Mason dived fully-clothed into fast-running Shawnigan Creek Saturday and swam 250 feet in an unsuccessful effort to reach Kenneth.

Kenneth, the son of Mrs. James Frederick Thomas, a widow, of 1742 Pembroke Street, had tumbled from a log which had been sucked from Shawnigan Lake into the rain-swollen creek.

His body was found at 3 p.m., nearly four hours after the accident.

Coroner H. W. Lewis of Nanaimo, said "I want to commend the gentleman who made the rescue attempt for his brave act. There is an award when such an act ends in success, but there is no award when an act just as brave does not succeed. Such bravery should be publicly commended."

Funeral services will be held at 1.15 p.m. Wednesday at McCall Brothers' Chapel Rev. G. R. Easter officiating. Cremation will follow.

East-West Artery Plan Moves Ahead

Another step has been taken in Saanich council's plan to extend McKenzie Avenue east and west — Municipal Engineer Neville Life has been given authority to negotiate the purchase of the first of many blocks of land needed for the project.

First step was taken last year when council voted that $6,000 be set aside each year for the purchase of needed land for the right-of-way for the $1,000,000 plan.

The completed road will, in part, link the Trans-Canada Highway with the Patricia Bay Highway, avoiding the Fountain Circle. A cloverleaf will enable traffic to transfer between Patricia Bay Highway and McKenzie.

On his own recommendation, Mr. Life was empowered to negotiate with the owner to purchase the property at a figure to be set by Municipal Assessor W. Jack Lindsay.

B.C. Research Report

Not Yet Tamed

Talk of British scientists having tamed the hydrogen bomb is exaggerated, Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of physics at UBC, told the Gyro Club of Victoria yesterday. He said it probably would be years before the bomb's hydrogen-fusion power was harnessed. "It's sort of like plucking a couple of whiskers out of a tiger and claiming you have tamed him."

Rain-Making 'Some Value'

Cloud-seeding operations on Vancouver Island and the mainland coast of British Columbia have had "some value," according to a report tabled in the legislature yesterday.

The 59-page report compiled was certain if there were any by the British Columbia Research Council said "detailed evaluation shows the over-all effect has been to increase precipitation and streamflow by more than .33 per cent in the Campbell River and Powell Lake watersheds.

It said the effect was the same in both the Vancouver Island and the mainland area under study.

"However, the probability that the increase could be as much as 10 per cent is extremely small," the report added.

Fears of cloud-seeding opponents that the operations would bring unwanted increase of rainfall to Vancouver Island tourist areas was discounted in the report.

It said no reliable estimate can be formed for the effect of seeding to regions "outside the target area," but added it net effects to interior agricul- ture and the coast tourist in- dustries are negligible small."

Creampuff Studies Scored by Physicist

"De-emphasis" of difficult subjects in the modern education system was criticized yesterday by Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of physics at the University of B.C.

Russia has modelled its education on western education of 25 or 50 years ago, Dr. Shrum said in address to the Gyro Club, and the Russian system places a good deal of emphasis on fundamentals such as mathematics and science — "Little Ivan gets about five times as much science and maths as required for entrance to UBC."

But in the West, Dr. Shrum said, "we have adopted a sort of philosophy that education must be something you enjoy, the same way as we think work must be something you enjoy."

When he went to school, he said, the teacher "didn't worry about motivating us—she had a nice little motivator in her desk drawer."

With his criticism of lack of emphasis on fundamentals in education, Dr. Shrum coupled a warning that the great civilizations of the past had crumbled on reaching maximum prosperity, to be replaced by more rugged, hard-working peoples.

He expressed doubt that the West could ever get ahead of Russia again in military technological achievement, to the point of being able to threaten Russia into agreement.
